Assessing writing in the National Assessment Program

The NAPLAN writing task

The writing task is provided to the students on a full-colour stimulus sheet. It contains the topic, task instructions and colour images to support the students. The topic and task instructions are read aloud to the students by the teacher. Students have 5 minutes to plan, 30 minutes to write and 5 minutes to edit.

The task instructions will be similar to:

What do you think? Do you agree or disagree? Perhaps you can think of ideas for both sides of this topic. Write to convince a reader of your opinion.

- Start with an introduction. An introduction lets a reader know what you are going to write about.
- Write your opinion on this topic. Give reasons for your opinion. Explain your reasons for your opinion.
- Finish with a conclusion. A conclusion sums up your reasons so that a reader is convinced of your opinion.

Remember to:

- plan your writing
- use paragraphs to organise your ideas
- write in sentences
- choose your words carefully to convince a reader of your opinion
- pay attention to your spelling and punctuation
- check and edit your writing so it is clear for a reader.

Definition

The following definition has shaped the development of the task and the persuasive writing marking criteria.

The purpose of persuasive writing is to persuade a reader to a point of view on an issue. Persuasive writing may express an opinion, discuss, analyse and evaluate an issue. It may also entertain and inform.

The style of persuasive writing may be formal or informal but it requires the writer to adopt a sense of authority on the subject matter and to develop the subject in an ordered, rational way. A writer of a persuasive text may draw on their own personal knowledge and experience or may draw on detailed knowledge of a particular subject or issue.

The main structural components of the persuasive text are the introduction, development of argument (body) and conclusion.

Within the broad persuasive genre and within the context of the given topic, writers may make decisions about themes and subjects they choose to write about and the details they use to develop their ideas. The task does not specify a preference for particular content on the given topic.

The marking criteria

Students' writing is assessed using an analytic criterion-referenced marking guide, consisting of a rubric containing ten marking criteria and annotated sample scripts. The ten criteria are:

1	Audience	The writer's capacity to orient, engage and persuade the reader
2	Text structure	The organisation of the structural components of a persuasive text (introduction, body and conclusion) into an appropriate and effective text structure
3	Ideas	The selection, relevance and elaboration of ideas for a persuasive argument
4	Persuasive devices	The use of a range of persuasive devices to enhance the writer's position and persuade the reader
5	Vocabulary	The range and precision of contextually appropriate language choices
6	Cohesion	The control of multiple threads and relationships across the text, achieved through the use of referring words, ellipsis, text connectives, substitutions and word associations
7	Paragraphing	The segmenting of text into paragraphs that assists the reader to follow the line of argument
8	Sentence structure	The production of grammatically correct, structurally sound and meaningful sentences
9	Punctuation	The use of correct and appropriate punctuation to aid the reading of the text
10	Spelling	The accuracy of spelling and the difficulty of the words used

The following table shows the range of score points for each criterion:

Audience	Text structure	Ideas	Persuasive devices	Vocabulary	Cohesion	Paragraphing	Sentence structure	Punctuation	Spelling
0-6	0-4	0-5	0-4	0-5	0-4	0-3	0-6	0-5	0-6

Using the marking rubric

Each assessment criterion is displayed on a separate page. The top of each page shows the criterion number and name. The skill focus defines the underlying skill being assessed.

Each score category has a category descriptor. A category descriptor is a broad statement describing the particular skill level. This is the overall statement that should be used to make the judgement.

Additional information is included to help shape the judgement. However, this information is not an exhaustive list. Rather, it is indicative of features that may be present in students' writing.

Notes on the bottom of the page provide clarifying detail where necessary.

Sample scripts which exemplify the standard for the category scores are listed. The number in brackets is the page reference of the script.

Sample scripts and their annotations exemplifying the category scores follow the marking rubric. The annotations of the sample scripts describe how the marking criteria have been applied. Together, the criteria and the sample scripts and their annotations are the means by which consistent marker judgements are made. Both are equally important to the marking process.

Discussion scripts with annotations have been included to guide the marking of types of writing that may be encountered.

The Note on Text Structure section gives information about the structural components of the persuasive text type.

Finally, a glossary of terms associated with the marking guide and a spelling reference list are provided.

Criteria

1 Audience

Skill focus: The writer's capacity to orient, engage and affect the reader.

	Category descriptor	Additional information	Sample scripts
0	symbols or drawings which have the intention of conveying meaning		PletRiDoLiSal (18)
1	- response to audience needs is limited - text contains simple written content - may be a title only	- text is very short OR - a longer text (more than one sentence) where meaning is difficult to access OR - copied stimulus material, including prompt topic	some animals cou'd die (20) animals getting cewd (22)
2	- shows basic awareness of audience expectations through attempting to orient the reader - provides some information to support reader understanding	- text may be short but is easily read - reader may need to fill gaps in information	it cruel to keep animals (24) animals will feel sad (28) any other animal (30)
3	- orients the reader - an internally consistent persuasive text that attempts to support the reader - by developing a shared understanding of context	contains sufficient information for the reader to follow the text fairly easily	They wont face danger (32) They try to break out (37) I agree and don't agree (41) Some toys and games are educational (45)
4	- supports reader understanding AND - begins to engage and persuade reader through language choices	- writer's choices may - create an appropriate relationship with reader (e.g. polite, formal, social distance, personal connection) - reveal values and attitudes - persuade through control of tenor - appeal to reason, emotions and/ or cultural values - subvert expectations (challenge readers' values) - acknowledge wider audience	My idea of a perfect zoo (48) All animals started off (52) Cages and Zoos (57)
5	supports, engages and persuades the reader through deliberate language choices and persuasive techniques		Under Certain Circumstances (62) Food, water and other nessasary supplies (66) The lion's glorious hair (70)
6	- controls writer/reader relationship - establishes strong, credible voice - crafts writing to influence reader by precise and sustained language choices and persuasive techniques - takes readers' values and expectations into account	(Additional information applies across 4 to 6.)	If humans can have a voice why can't animals (74) zoos can have useful purposes (78) things should be regulated (82)

2 Text structure

Skill focus: The organisation of the structural components of a persuasive text (introduction, body and conclusion) into an appropriate and effective text structure.

	Category descriptor	Additional information	Sample scripts
0	no evidence of any structural components of a persuasive text	- symbols or drawings - inappropriate genre, e.g. narrative, description, recount, procedure - title only	PletRi DoLiSal (18)
1	- minimal evidence of persuasive structure - structural components not clearly identifiable - OR - one component only, e.g. an introduction or body	- text may be - a statement such as an opinion and/or reason (may be followed by recount or description) - a list of statements or beliefs that contains an opinion	some animals cou'd die (20) animals getting cewd (22) it cruel to keep animals (24) animals will feel sad (28) any other animal (30) They wont face danger (32) They try to break out (37)
2	- text contains two clearly identifiable structural components - OR - all components are present but weak	- introduction or conclusion are clearly differentiated from the body - often presents as a more developed body with underdeveloped introduction and conclusion	I agree and don't agree (41) Some toys and games are educational (45) My idea of a perfect zoo (48)
3	- text contains an introduction, a body and conclusion - OR - detailed longer text with two developed components and one weaker component	- structural components are developed - body is developed with reasons and supporting evidence	All animals started off (52) Under Certain Circumstances (62) Food, water and other nessasary supplies (66)
4	- coherent, controlled and complete argument - all components are well developed - introduction with clear position statement - AND - body with reasons and detailed supporting evidence - AND - conclusion that reinforces the writer's position	conclusion may reflect on issues raised and/or recommend action (more than a restatement of the main points of argument)	The lion's glorious hair (70) Cages and Zoos (57) If humans can have a voice why can't animals (74) zoos can have useful purposes (78) things should be regulated (82)

3 Ideas

Skill focus: The selection, relevance and elaboration of ideas for a persuasive argument.

	Category descriptor	Additional information	Sample scripts
0	no evidence or insufficient evidence	- symbols or drawings - title only	PletRi DoLiSal (18)
1	- text contains one idea OR - ideas appear unrelated to each other OR - ideas are unrelated to topic on prompt		some animals cou'd die (20)
2	- one idea with simple elaboration OR - ideas are few and related but not elaborated OR - many simple ideas that are related but not elaborated		animals getting cewd (22) it cruel to keep animals (24) animals will feel sad (28) any other animal (30)
3	- ideas are supported with some elaboration OR - many unelaborated ideas that relate plausibly to argument (four or more) OR - one idea with more developed elaboration	- may also contain ineffective or unrelated ideas - may be assertions/opinions	They wont face danger (32) they try to break out (37) I agree and don't agree (41) Some toys and games are educational (45) My idea of a perfect zoo (48) All animals started off (52)
4	ideas are elaborated and contribute effectively to the writer's position	- ideas may include - benefits to the whole group (more than just personal) - reflection on the wider world/ universal issues - ideas may be elaborated by, e.g. - a range of issues both for and against the stated position - a refutation of other positions or opinions - explaining cause and effect	Cages and Zoos (57) Under Certain Circumstances (62) Food, water and other nessasary supplies (66) The lion's glorious hair (70)
5	ideas are generated, selected and crafted to be highly persuasive	- ideas may include: - psychological subjects - unexpected topics - mature viewpoints - elements of popular culture - satirical perspectives - extended metaphor - traditional sub-genre subjects: heroic quest / whodunnit / good vs evil / overcoming the odds	If humans can have a voice why can't animals (74) zoos can have useful purposes (78) things should be regulated (82)

4 Persuasive devices

Skill focus: The use of a range of persuasive devices to enhance the writer's position and persuade the reader.

	Category descriptor	Additional information	Sample scripts
0	no evidence or insufficient evidence	- symbols or drawings - writes in wrong genre - copies topic only - title only	PletRi DoLiSal (18) some animals cou'd die (20)
1	- uses a statement or statements of personal opinion OR - uses one or two instances of persuasive devices (may be same type)	- opinion may appear confused or contradictory - uses only simple devices (I think ... very, very) I reckon ... should ... because forms one instance of a persuasive device	animals getting cewd (22) animals will feel sad (28) any other animal (30) They wont face danger (32)
2	uses three or more instances of persuasive devices that support the writer's position (at least two types)	may have more devices than required but these are ineffective	it cruel to keep animals (24) They try to break out (37) I agree and don't agree (41) Some toys and games are educational (45) My idea of a perfect zoo (48)
3	- uses some devices that persuade - use is effective but not sustained (may also include some ineffective use)	- there are many devices that can be used to persuade a reader - effective devices are appropriate to the style of argument and may appeal to one or more of the reader's reason, values or emotions	All animals started off (52) Cages and Zoos (57) Food, water and other nessasary supplies (66)
4	sustained and effective use of persuasive devices	convincing dialogue, introspection and reactions to other characters	Under Certain Circumstances (62) The lion's glorious hair (70) If humans can have a voice why can't animals (74) zoos can have useful purposes (78) things should be regulated (82)

Note: About a page of writing is needed to consider sustained use (Category 4)

5 Vocabulary

Skill focus: The range and precision of contextually appropriate language choices.

	Category descriptor	Additional information	Sample scripts
0	symbols or drawings		PletRi DoLiSal (18)
1	very short script	- few content words - title only	some animals cou'd die (20)
2	- mostly simple words - may include two or three precise words or word groups	- single nouns water, award, house, reason, news, people, world - simple noun groups a very helpful man, a tin cage, television programs - single verbs like, run, look, need, think, played - simple verb groups did it the proper way, looked around the room - adjectives and adverbs cold, always, really, very, friendly, rich - simple comparisons as much as she can, the best teacher I ever had, one of the fastest	animals getting cewd (22) it cruel to keep animals (24) animals will feel sad (28) any other animal (30) They wont face danger (32) They try to break out (37) I agree and don't agree (41) Some toys and games are educational (45)
3	four or more precise words or word groups	- single precise words citizen, urge, budget, consider, solution, protect, supportive, research	My idea of a perfect zoo (48) All animals started off (52) The lion's glorious hair (70)
4	- sustained and consistent use of precise words and word groups that enhance the meaning (may be some inappropriate) - or inaccurate word choices)	- modal adjectives and adverbs ultimate, certain, extreme, possibly, definitely, rarely - precise word groups duty of care, quick-minded person, a positive impact on society - modal groups it would seem that, it is unlikely that	Cages and Zoos (57) Under Certain Circumstances (62) Food, water and other nessasary supplies (66) If humans can have a voice why can't animals (74)
5	- a range of precise and effective words and word groups is used in a fluent and articulate manner - language choice is well matched to style of argument	- technical habitat, life expectancy, politician, global warming, financial crisis - nominalisations probability, likelihood, shortsightedness - figurative language, e.g. alliteration, metaphor, simile, personification (Additional information applies across 3 to 5.)	zoos can have useful purposes (78) things should be regulated (82)

Note: Words are generally categorised into two classes:

- Content words (or lexical items) describe objects and concepts. This class of words consists of nouns, verbs, adverbs, adjectives, noun groups, phrasal verbs and verb groups.
- Grammatical word classes (or structural words) consist of prepositions, articles, conjunctions, pronouns and interjections.

About a page of writing is needed to consider sustained use (Categories 4 and 5).

6 Cohesion

Skill focus: The control of multiple threads and relationships over the whole text, achieved through the use of referring words, ellipsis, text connectives, substitutions and word associations.

	Category descriptor	Additional information	Sample scripts
0	symbols or drawings	title only	PletRi DoLiSal (18)
1	- links are missing or incorrect - short script often confusing for the reader	may be just one word	some animals cou'd die (20) animals getting cewd (22) animals will feel sad (28)
2	- some correct links between sentences (do not penalise for poor punctuation) - most referring words are accurate OR - longer text with cohesion controlled only in parts reader may occasionally need to re-read and provide their own links to clarify meaning	- May use - simple word associations motorbike rider/stunts, bandaid/ stick - small selection of simple connectives and conjunctions and, if, so, when, because, not only ... but also, then, but, or - often marked by cumbersome repetition of nouns or unreferenced pronouns	it cruel to keep animals (24) any other animal (30) They wont face danger (32) They try to break out (37) I agree and don't agree (41) Some toys and games are educational (45)
3	controlled use of cohesive devices supports reader understanding meaning is clear on first reading and text flows well in a sustained piece of writing	- May use - word associations, e.g. synonyms safe haven/habitat/sanctuary/ enclosure collocation black market/mistreatment/unethical - other connectives however, although, therefore, additionally, instead, even though, finally, in saying this - there may be occasional lapses in referring words that track plural nouns, e.g. animals ... it	My idea of a perfect zoo (48) All animals started off (52) Cages and Zoos (57) Under Certain Circumstances (62) Food, water and other nessasary supplies (66) The lion's glorious hair (70)
4	a range of cohesive devices is used correctly and deliberately to enhance reading and support underlying relationships an extended, highly cohesive piece of writing showing continuity of ideas and tightly linked sections of text	consistent use of cohesive devices, e.g. referring words, ellipsis, text connectives, substitutions and word associations that enhance meaning	If humans can have a voice why can't animals (74) zoos can have useful purposes (78) things should be regulated (82)

Note

- About a page of writing is needed to consider sustained use (Categories 3 and 4).
- In first draft writing allowance for an occasional lapse in consistency of tense across text can be made at Categories 3 and 4.

7 Paragraphing

Skill focus: The segmenting of text into paragraphs that assists the reader to follow the line of argument.

	Category descriptor	Additional information	Sample scripts
0	no correct use of paragraphing	- script may be a block of text - may be random breaks - may be a new line for every sentence (where break is not used to separate ideas)	PletRi DoLiSal (18) some animals cou'd die (20) animals getting cewd (22) it cruel to keep animals (24) animals will feel sad (28) any other animal (30) They wont face danger (32) They try to break out (37)
1	writing is organised into paragraphs that are mainly focused on one idea or set of like ideas to assist the reader to digest chunks of text contains at least one correct paragraph break	- ideas are separated (paragraphs may contain some unrelated ideas) - paragraphs may be used to separate the body from the introduction and/or conclusion (two or three paragraphs)	I agree and don't agree (41) Some toys and games are educational (45) Under Certain Circumstances (62)
2	- all paragraphs are focused on one idea or set of like ideas - at least one paragraph is logically constructed and contains a topic sentence and supporting detail - paragraphs are mostly correct	- not all topic sentences are successful - body needs at least two paragraphs - may use an extended one-sentence paragraph that contains an elaborated idea	My idea of a perfect zoo (48) All animals started off (52) zoos can have useful purposes (78)
3	paragraphing supports argument paragraphs are ordered and cumulatively build argument across text	- each paragraph is deliberately structured to pace and direct the reader's attention - single sentence may be used as a final comment for emphasis	Cages and Zoos (57) Food, water and other nessasary supplies (66) The lion's glorious hair (70) If humans can have a voice why can't animals (74) things should be regulated (84)

Note: For the purposes of the task, intended paragraphs can be indicated by any of the following conventions:

- indentation of a new line
- space between blocks of text
- student annotations, e.g. P for paragraph or NP for new paragraph, tram lines, square brackets, asterisk
- available space on previous line left unused, followed by new line for paragraph beginning.

8 Sentence structure

Skill focus: The production of grammatically correct, structurally sound and meaningful sentences.

	Category descriptor	Additional information	Sample scripts
0	no evidence of sentences	- drawings, symbols, a list of words, text fragments - title only	PletRi DoLiSal (18)
1	some correct formation of sentences some meaning can be construed	- in general control is very limited - very short script (one sentence) - most sentences contain the same basic structures - may be overuse of the conversational 'and' or 'then'	some animals cou'd die (20) it cruel to keep animals (24)
2	correct sentences are mostly simple and/or compound sentences meaning is predominantly clear	- two or more correct sentences required - a short script that consists only of correct complex sentences (where there are no simple sentences) - text may include complex sentences that use one basic structure (two, if one is a projected clause)	animals getting cewd (22) animals will feel sad (28) any other animal (30) They wont face danger (32)
3	- most (approx 80%) simple and compound sentences are correct AND - some complex sentences are correct meaning is predominantly clear	- four or more correct sentences required - simple sentences may show some extension - experiments with basic structures in complex sentences - requires two or more types (three or more, if one is a projected clause)	They try to break out (37) I agree and don't agree (41) Some toys and games are educational (45) My idea of a perfect zoo (48) Cages and Zoos (57)
4	- most (approx 80%) simple, compound and complex sentences are correct OR - all simple, compound and complex sentences are correct but do not demonstrate variety meaning is clear	- more routine use and greater control of elaborating clauses and phrases in simple, compound and complex sentences - usually requires a sustained piece of writing	All animals started off (52) Under Certain Circumstances (62) Food, water and other nessasary supplies (66) If humans can have a voice why can't animals (74)
5	- sentences are correct (allow for occasional error in more sophisticated structures) - demonstrates variety meaning is clear and sentences enhance meaning	- shows control over a range of different structures (quantity, quality and variety) VARIETY - clause types and patterns: verbless, adjectival, adverbial, multiple, non-finite - dependent clause position	The lion's glorious hair (70) zoos can have useful purposes (78)
6	all sentences are correct (allow for occasional slip, e.g. a missing word) writing contains controlled and well-developed sentences that express precise meaning and are consistently effective	- length and rhythm - increased elaboration and extension - stylistically appropriate choices (Additional information applies across 5 to 6.)	things should be regulated (82)

- Some students do not accurately identify their sentence boundaries with punctuation. In these cases it will be necessary to read the intended sentence.
- Run-on sentences should not be regarded as successful (overly repeated 'and', 'so', etc).
- Verb control and preposition errors should be considered as sentence errors.

9 Punctuation

Skill focus: The use of correct and appropriate punctuation to aid reading of the text.

	Category descriptor	Additional information	Sample scripts
0	- no evidence of correct sentence punctuation - title only	SENTENCE PUNCTUATION INCLUDES capital letters to begin sentences	PletRi DoLiSal (18) it cruel to keep animals (24)
1	correct use of capital letters to start sentences OR full stops to end sentences (at least one correct sentence marker) punctuation is minimal and of little assistance to the reader	full stops, question marks and exclamation marks to end sentences OTHER PUNCTUATION INCLUDES	Some animals cou'd die (20) animals getting cewd (22) animals will feel sad (28)
2	- some correct use of sentence level punctuation (at least two accurately punctuated sentences - beginning and end) OR - one correctly punctuated sentence AND some other punctuation correct where it is required (refer to list in additional information) provides some markers to assist reading	- commas in lists - commas to mark clauses and phrases - apostrophes for contractions - apostrophes for possession - capital letters and commas used within quotation marks	They wont face danger (32) All animals started off (52)
3	- sentence level punctuation mostly correct (minimum of 80% of five sentences punctuated correctly) AND some other correct punctuation (two or more examples of other punctuation) OR - accurate sentence punctuation with correct noun capitalisation and no stray capitals, nothing else used (four or more sentences) provides adequate markers to assist reading	- quotation marks for text extracts, highlighted words and words used with ironic emphasis ('sneer' quotes) - brackets and dashes - colons and semicolons - points of ellipsis NOUN CAPITALISATION INCLUDES	any other animal (30) They try to break out (37) I agree and don't agree (41) My idea of a perfect zoo (48) Cages and Zoos (57) Under Certain Circumstances (62)
4	- all sentence punctuation correct (no stray capitals) AND - mostly correct use of other punctuation, including noun capitalisation provides accurate markers to enable smooth and efficient reading	- titles: Mr, Mrs, Miss, Ms - place names: Paris, Italy - institution names: Valley High - days of week, months of year - street names: Ord St - book and film titles	Some toys and games are educational (45) The lion's glorious hair (70) If humans can have a voice why can't animals (74) things should be regulated (82)
5	writing contains accurate use of all applicable punctuation provides precise markers to pace and control reading of the text	- holidays: Easter, Ramadan - historic and sporting events: World War II, Olympics (Additional information applies across 0 to 5.)	zoos can have useful purposes (78) Food, water and other nessasary supplies (66)

- In first draft writing, allowances can be made for the very occasional omission of sentence punctuation at Categories 4 and 5.
- 'Mostly' is approximately 80% but it is not intended that every use of punctuation is calculated rigorously.
- Do not penalise for different heading styles. The following styles are all considered acceptable:
 - only the first letter capitalised (It is cruel to keep animals in cages or zoos)
 - the first letter of all major words capitalised (It Is Cruel to Keep Animals in Cages or Zoos)
 - all words capitalised (It Is Cruel To Keep Animals In Cages Or Zoos)
 - all letters capitalised (IT IS CRUEL TO KEEP ANIMALS IN CAGES OR ZOOS)
- 'Splice' commas used to join two sentences are INCORRECT, e.g. The dog ate my home work, it was hungry. Do not score this as correct sentence punctuation or comma use.

10 Spelling

Skill focus: The accuracy of spelling and the difficulty of the words used.

	Category descriptor	Additional information	Sample scripts

Criterion	Score	Annotations
1. Audience	0	Text has the intention of conveying meaning. Although some words appear discernible (he, to, the, all, anuf, wota), text is predominantly strings of letters from which meaning cannot be accessed.
2. Text structure	0	No evidence of structural components of a persuasive text.
3. Ideas	0	Insufficient evidence.
4. Persuasive devices	0	Insufficient evidence.
5. Vocabulary	0	Although some words appear discernible, there is a lack of context to verify meaning.
6. Cohesion	0	Text is predominantly strings of letters that do not support meaning.
7. Paragraphing	0	No paragraphing.
8. Sentence structure	0	No evidence of sentences.
9. Punctuation	0	Text is a random mix of capital and lower-case letters. Full stops at the end of lines override the use of one (possibly) correct at end.
10. Spelling	0	Some simple words may be distinguishable (he, to, the, all); however, because text is predominantly letter strings, there is a lack of context to verify meaning.

Criterion	Score	Annotations
1. Audience	1	A very short text with some simple content that does not orient the reader.
2. Text structure	1	Minimal evidence of persuasive structure. Text consists of a reason only.
3. Ideas	1	One idea which answers a question posed by the prompt.
4. Persuasive devices	0	Insufficient evidence. Conditional mood (if) and modal verb (cou'd) are present but not used as persuasive devices as there is no opinion to be persuaded to.
5. Vocabulary	1	Very short script with few content words (animals, die).
6. Cohesion	1	Reference to you is not clear. No other links evident.
7. Paragraphing	0	No paragraphs.
8. Sentence structure	1	Very short script with correct formation of one dependent clause, part of which could stand alone as a simple sentence (some animals cou'd die).
9. Punctuation	1	One full stop correct. Correct contraction (don't) is not considered as control of sentence punctuation is not demonstrated.
10. Spelling	1	Limited evidence. Less than 20 words are written. Even though there are four correct common words (because, don't, some, die), this cannot be considered for Category 2.

Criterion	Score	Annotations
1. Audience	1	Text has simple written content. Some meaning can be accessed through imputation of words. High Category 1.
2. Text structure	1	Minimal evidence of persuasive structure. Text gives an opinion (animals are vare inpotet for aw oref).
3. Ideas	2	One idea with some elaboration.
4. Persuasive devices	1	Two instances of persuasive devices used: statement of authority (animals are vare inpotet for aw oref) and appeal to reader (wi dt we respt theer homs).
5. Vocabulary	2	Mostly simple content words. Some precise use (inpotet ... oref, respt).
6. Cohesion	1	A short script. Although there are some links (it was sad, theer homs, aw oref, wi dt we respt) across sentences, there is insufficient evidence for Category 2.
7. Paragraphing	0	No evidence of paragraphing.
8. Sentence structure	2	Most simple sentences are correct. Enough evidence for Category 2.
9. Punctuation	1	Full stop and capital letter after sad are the only clear instances of correct sentence punctuation.
10. Spelling	1	Text contains few examples of conventional spelling. There are some correct simple words and one correct common word. Does not meet requirements for Category 2. Errors include hoem/homs, sor, dedth, cagaro, borg, sot, ever, tim, vare, etc. Simple words correct: I, was, going, and, me, my, mum, it, sad, get, are, for, we. Common word correct: animals.

1. Audience	2	Shows a basic awareness of audience by providing information to support stated position.

It is cruel to keep animals in zoo's or cages. It is really good to keep birds in cages but any other animal can go into the zoo.

etc. Tigers and lions can go into zoo's but not cages because they can not fit inside.

Tigers, lions, elephant's and kangaroos are in the zoo and then go out into the wild.

I think it is cruel to put animals in cages because they won't get to know what is freedom like.

I think it is really good if animals to go into the zoo. Because people get to see the animals.

1. Audience	2	Shows basic awareness of audience expectations. Writer is attempting to orient the reader to the difference between cages and zoos but reader has to fill gaps in information to make sense of this difference.
2. Text structure	1	Minimal evidence of persuasive structure – structural components are not clearly identifiable. Text is a list of opinions with reasons.
3. Ideas	2	The few ideas are related but not elaborated.
4. Persuasive devices	1	Text contains personal opinions (It is really good), some of which have reasons (I think ... because).
5. Vocabulary	2	Text consists of simple words.
6. Cohesion	2	Key phrases are repeated across text. Noun-pronoun referencing is correct within sentences. There is also cohesion through word associations (animals, birds, tigers, lion's, elephant's, kangaroo's).
7. Paragraphing	0	First line of text is a heading, followed by a new line for each sentence, none of which is elaborated and past a basic idea.
8. Sentence structure	2	One simple, two compound and one complex sentence are correct. Two complex incorrect – in fourth section of text, statement switches to question form. Last section consists of one incorrect sentence and a fragment (the full stop cannot be read out).
9. Punctuation	3	Sentence punctuation is correct. Other correct use includes commas in list and apostrophe for contraction. Incorrect use of apostrophes for plurals in zoo's, elephant's and kangaroo's and stray capital (Put) keep this from Category 4.
10. Spelling	3	Most simple and most common words correct. Common words correct: cruel, animals, cages, really, any, other, tigers, lions, inside, elephants, kangaroos, wild, think, they, won't, know, what, freedom, people, like. Because is spelt correctly and incorrectly. I agree that animals should be in cages because:

- They won't face danger
 - They won't need to fight other animals
 - They won't be killed.
 - If another animal comes in they would be saved by us or the strong gate.
 - They will have water and food every time.
- That is why animals should be in cages. ☺
- I disagree that animals should not be in cages because:

- They are free and allowed to do anything they want to do.

Criterion	Score	Annotations
1. Audience	3	There is enough information to orient the reader. Text contains a few points to support two clearly stated but opposing opinions.
2. Text structure	1	Minimal evidence of persuasive structure. Text consists of two sections, both of which are a list of ideas.
3. Ideas	3	Several unelaborated ideas that relate plausibly. Each section consists of four or more unelaborated ideas.
4. Persuasive devices	1	Text contains a list of reasons that support two opposing positions.
5. Vocabulary	2	Mostly simple content words with two instances of precise use (face danger, explore new places).
6. Cohesion	2	Referring words are accurate. A small range of connectives (because, if, and) and word associations (e.g. danger/fight/killed, free/explore new places) are used. Tense used in bullet points is not consistent (e.g. won't/won't/would/will) and does not match stems.
7. Paragraphing	0	Text has line breaks but no correct paragraph breaks.
8. Sentence structure	2	Both stems and their dot points form basic complex sentences of the same type. Text does not show the complexity necessary for a Category 3. Verb error in fourth dot point (comes).
9. Punctuation	2	Text contains at least two accurately punctuated sentences: capital to start stem and full stop after bullet point. However, there is some inconsistency with this style as not all bullet points finish with full stops. Capitals to begin bullet points are used consistently and therefore not penalised. Uses two colons, comma for phrasing and slash for he/her . No contraction in wont .

They try to break out

I think you should not put animals in cages. Because they would want to be in the wild with their family.

It's also cruel to put animals in cages because sometimes they try to break out and hurt themselves. If the cage is too small the animal can not move around and play. If an animal is in a zoo then they will have a good habitat because there are no hunters and they are not in a tiny cage where they get bored.

So that is why animals should not be put in cages.

1. Audience	3	Argument is clear and supported with some evidence. The distinction between cages and zoos is made clear through reasons presented.
2. Text structure	1	Minimal evidence of persuasive structure. Writer has not used structural components to support the argument. Although text has a sense of ending, the last sentence is not strong enough to be considered a conclusion.
3. Ideas	3	Several ideas are elaborated with some reasons.
4. Persuasive devices	2	Contains two statements of personal opinion (I think ... should not ... because; animals should not ...) and two conditional statements introduced with if .
5. Vocabulary	2	Mostly simple content words with some precise words or word groups (in the wild, break out, habitat).
6. Cohesion	2	Although meaning is clear, text is too short to be considered a sustained piece of writing.
7. Paragraphing	0	No paragraphs.
8. Sentence structure	3	Sufficient evidence of correct complex sentences. Uses two types of dependent clauses (... because ..., If ...) in different positions. Also uses projected clauses.
9. Punctuation	3	Correctly punctuates sentences. One correct use of apostrophe for contraction is insufficient use of other punctuation for Category 4.

IT IS CRUEL TO KEEP ANIMALS IN CAGES AND ZOOS

I agree with that statement and I also don't agree with that statement. Today I'm going to tell you my reasons.

I agree because some animals like Panda's are endangered and if they go out in the wild they will get shot. This is a nother reason because some of them can kill people like a lion.

I disagree because I think they should learn to catch food not be hand fed and I also think they should find there own shelter too. And Also they don't see there family. And I know if I was a animal I wouldn't like to be touched or seen.

So what I'm trying to say is some animals should be in cages and some not.

1. Audience	3	Orients the reader by making position clear. There is an attempt to support the reader by presenting sufficient information to provide a line of argument that takes both sides.
2. Text structure	2	Text contains two clearly identifiable structural components: introduction and a body. The last sentence is not strong enough to be considered a conclusion.
3. Ideas	3	Several ideas are elaborated with some reasons.
4. Persuasive devices	2	Several instances of at least two types of persuasive devices that support writer's position. Several statements of personal opinion (e.g. I agree because; I disagree because I think ... should), conditional (If ... will), value statement (I know if ... I wouldn't) and attempt at emphasis (So what I'm trying to say ...). Not successful enough for Category 3.
5. Vocabulary	2	Text consists mostly of simple words. Precise words are indangered, in the wild, sheltered .
6. Cohesion	2	Some correct referencing. References to Th s in second paragraph and to they in third paragraph are unclear.
7. Paragraphing	1	Writing is organised into introduction, a two-paragraph body, and ending statement. However, neither body paragraph contains a clear topic sentence and ideas are not organised clearly enough for Category 2. An example of a strong Category 1 text.
8. Sentence structure	3	Simple and compound sentences correct (one of each). Some complex sentences correct. Experimentation with complexity is evident in second paragraph. Last sentence of third paragraph (If I was ...) could have used subjunctive tense (If I were ...) but writer is not penalised for this. Enough success for Category 3.
9. Punctuation	3	Controls sentence punctuation (seven sentences correct). Correct use of apostrophes for contractions (I'm, don't, wouldn't). Incorrect use of apostrophe in panda's . Stray capitals (Panda's, People, Also). Not enough correct use of other punctuation for Category 4.

Some toys and games are educational

I disagree that too much money is spent on toys and games. Because some toys and games are educational. Also toys and games can help you to exercise like skipping, basketball, trampolines and much more.

Everyone can play with board games like Scrabble, Snakes and ladders, Monopoly and hundreds of more!! People also like playing card games like Uno, Snap, go fish and for the older people they might like poker!!

So I don't think too much money is spent on toys and games. I think people like my family like games and making up games. So if you think your wasting money make up your own game and enjoy!

7. Paragraphing	1	Writing is organised into paragraphs that are focussed on like ideas.
8. Sentence structure	3	Text includes five complex sentences, four of which are correct: I disagree that ... ; So I don't think too much money ... ; I think people like ... ; So if you think ... Errors are: fragment (Because ...); incorrect placement of phrase in sentence Also toys and games ... ; preposition (hundreds of more); and three unnecessary words in compound sentence (People also like ...).
9. Punctuation	4	All sentences are correctly demarcated with capital letters and end-markers (though redundant use of exclamation marks in two sentences). Correct use of other punctuation – commas in lists, apostrophe for contraction (don't) and noun capitalisation for brand name games.
10. Spelling	4	Correct use of simple words, most common words and some difficult words. Common words correct: disagree, too, money, spent, games, because, some, also, like, skipping, basketball, more, everyone, scrabble, snakes, ladders, hundreds, playing, older, people, they, might, poker, don't, think, family, making, wasting, make, own, enjoy. Common word incorrect: your (you're). Difficult words correct: educational, trampolines, Monopoly, boardgames. Difficult word incorrect: excersize.

My idea of a perfect zoo

I do not agree with the essay statement on some levels but I agree with it on other levels.

~~The~~ In my opinion only certain animals should be locked up for i.e. lions, tigers and hippos. But then animals such as birds shouldn't be locked up. Lions, tigers and hippos should be locked up because they ~~are~~ have a history of ~~being~~ eating humans.

My idea of a perfect zoo is one ~~similar~~ similar to the one in Dubbo where the animals are let to run free. Although I would lock up all of the dangerous animals.

One of the main reasons that I disagree with the statement is ~~because~~ Most zoos mimic the animals natural habitat so well that the animals don't realise that they're in a cage.

When animals are born in captivity they haven't lived in the wild. So they don't know ~~what~~ what their missing. Also having animals kept

My idea of a perfect zoo

In separate cages will give them a longer life-span and will reduce the risk of being hunted.

Overall ~~the~~ I agree with some aspects of the statement.

1. Audience	4	Supports reader understanding with sufficient detail on subject matter. Begins to engage and persuade by attempting to establish relationship with a wider audience through language choices (only certain animals, most zoos mimick, reduce the risk of being hunted).
2. Text structure	2	Text contains two components: an introduction and a body. The introduction gives a position and indicates a discussion on the issue will follow. The last sentence is not strong enough to be considered a conclusion as it is a restatement of the position.
3. Ideas	3	Several ideas are elaborated with some evidence which is mainly assertion/opinion. A solid Category 3.
4. Persuasive devices	2	Several instances of statements of personal opinion: I do not agree ... but I agree; In my opinion ... should; My idea of ...; One of the main reasons that I disagree ...; Overall I agree . Several uses of modality (... shouldn't be locked up .) Overall, devices are not effective for Category 3.
5. Vocabulary	3	Some use of precise words and word groups: only certain animals, similar to the one, mimick the animals natural habitat so well that, born into captivity, reduce the risk . Not the sustained use needed for Category 4.
6. Cohesion	3	Meaning is clear on first reading. Referencing is correct (I agree with it, lions, tigers and hippos – they, is one ... one in Dubbo). Sufficient use of connectives (but then, because, although, so, also, overall).
7. Paragraphing	2	Attempts topic sentences to start each paragraph with some success, e.g. second paragraph. Second and fourth paragraphs have some brief supporting detail. An example of a weak Category 2 text.
8. Sentence structure	3	Most simple, compound and complex sentences are correct but there are not enough sophisticated structures for Category 4. Errors include repetition of animals in second paragraph, fragment in fourth paragraph and incorrect verb (kept).
9. Punctuation	3	Sentence punctuation is mostly correct. One error in fourth paragraph. There are examples of other punctuation, which include commas in lists (correct and incorrect), contractions (one correct and several incorrect), missing apostrophe for possession and some stray capitals. Enough control for Category 3.
10. Spelling	5	Correct spelling of simple words, most common words and at least 10 difficult words. Common words incorrect : mimick, their (they're), kept . Difficult words correct : statement, opinion, certain, history, similar, dangerous, natural, habitat, realise, captivity, reduce . Challenging word incorrect : seperate .

All animals started off

All animals started off as wild animals, but we put ~~the~~ different animals in captivity for several reasons. Some of those reasons are for food, help with labour or simply for pets. Depending on the reason it can be ~~be~~ cruel or uncruel to keep animals in captivity.

For animals such as chickens, cows, pigs and other farm animals it isn't cruel to keep them in captivity. We need them to supply us with food, without them we wouldn't have eggs or meat, we would have to become vegetarians or die of starvation.

For working animals such as dogs or horses it generally isn't cruel to keep them in captivity, depending on what work they are required to do. Dogs love human attention, so it isn't cruel to keep them as pets or working animals.

Pets such as cats, dogs, fish and birds are fine to be kept in captivity as long as they are not neglected. Cats, birds and fish can take care of themselves the main thing for you to do is give them food and water.

All animals started off

Animals such as Lizards, Snakes and other wilder animals are better off left in the wild.

Most Wild animals should not be kept in captivity. They need open spaces and can sometimes harm humans. The ^{only} exception is for conservation. Some animals such as Pandas need our help to stay alive.

keeping animals can be cruel or uncruel depending on the circumstances. If the animal is well looked after and happy then it is uncruel to keep it.

1. Audience	4	Begins to engage and persuade with reasoned argument. Detail provided reveals values.
2. Text structure	3	Three clearly identifiable parts that work together in service of argument. Introduction sets up points of argument that follow, body is developed and conclusion gives a brief summary and restates position.
3. Ideas	3	Each idea has developed elaboration; however, most is assertion or opinion (dogs love human attention, cats, birds and fish can take care of themselves). Not effective for Category 4.
4. Persuasive devices	3	Devices are effective through appeal to reader's logic, emotions and values (e.g. we need them to supply us with food ... or die of starvation; Dogs love human attention so it isn't cruel to keep them as pets or working animals.)
5. Vocabulary	3	Some precise usage (labour, captivity, supply, vegetarians, starvation, neglected, exception, conservation) but this is not consistent enough for Category 4. Some inaccurate use that includes incorrect word forms (uncruel, wilder).
6. Cohesion	3	Meaning is clear and text flows well in a sustained piece of writing. Referencing is correct. Repetition (For animals such as) to start paragraphs assists the smooth reading of this text. Text uses linking words and phrases (Some of those reasons, depending on the reason, without them). Uses mostly simple word associations (food/eggs/meat/vegetarian).
7. Paragraphing	2	Paragraphs are logically constructed and contain a topic sentence with relevant and focused supporting detail. Strong Category 2.
8. Sentence structure	4	Sentences are correct and demonstrate control of elaborating clauses and phrases. Uses a small range of structures such as non-finite clauses (It isn't cruel to keep them ..., to supply us ...) and shifting of clause position in first and third paras (Depending on the reason ...) but does not have the variety for Category 5.
9. Punctuation	2	Not enough sentence punctuation correct for Category 3, with splice commas (second and fifth paragraphs), missing full stop (fourth paragraph) and missing capital in the final paragraph (keeping). There are several correct uses of commas for lists and apostrophes for contraction. Some correct and some missing commas for phrasing but these are not considered until Category 3 sentence punctuation is achieved.
10. Spelling	5	No errors in simple or common words. At least 10 difficult words correct. Difficult words correct: different, captivity, several, labour, supply, vegetarians, starvation, attention, neglected, exception, conservation, circumstances. Difficult words incorrect: generally, recquired.

Cages and Zoos.

You may have noticed that over the past couple of years, the issue of animals well being has been debated time and time again.

Many animals are captured or breed and then been put into appalling habitats. The state in which some animals are treated is wrong. I agree with some aspects of this statement...

Many animals are treated in well funded countries. Australia's Dubbo Zoo allows many animals a safe haven, hidden from poachers or hunters. The habitats are state of the art and the animals are treated well. An example of this is the new Panda enclosure at Dubbo. These pandas were taken from the forests of China. Some may argue that this is wrong but pandas have been hunted and killed by poachers for many years. Many people have begged the Chinese government to crack down on the poachers in a desperate attempt to save native flora and fauna.

However no action was take. The owner of Dubbo zoo decided to take action and bought two pandas from a zoo in China where they had been wrongly treated. This symbolic act inspired the Chinese government to too take action. However animals many animals are still trapped in cages and wrongly treated.

I believe that if an animal is in a zoo with the proper habitat it is not wrong but if an animal is crammed in a cage it is wrong.

Sometimes though it is not the habitat they are in, it the way that they are treated. Bears in Bangladesh have recently featured in '60 minutes' are in good habitats but are fed ~~once~~ once a week and never let out. This abrogation of the animals well-being symbolises Humans lack of respect and destructive force. The freedom of the bears is desperately being supported by animal activists groups such as RSPCA and Greenpeace. I believe that if an animal is in a good habitat but treated unfairly it is wrong.

Many animals are placed into sanctuaries and zoos. Many animals are treated with respect and integrity. However the issue of the abrogation of many animals well being as safety cannot be ignored. I believe that many animals are fine in good enclosures in zoos but the selfish acts of placing an animal in a poor enclosure and treated unfairly is wrong.

Criterion	Score	Annotations
1. Audience	4	Creates an appropriate relationship with reader by using a respectful direct address in opening paragraph. Begins to engage and persuade by presenting a detailed argument supported by examples, some of which are somewhat implausible (This symbolic act inspired the Chinese government to take action).
2. Text structure	4	All components are well-developed. Conclusion restates and reinforces position.
3. Ideas	4	Ideas are elaborated and draw on big issues (role of governments and activist groups, human nature) to build argument. Supports using examples and references (Dubbo Zoo, 60 minutes) and by counter argument (Some may argue ...).
4. Persuasive devices	3	Use of devices is mostly effective. Text appeals to reason and values. Devices include drawing reader's attention (You may have ...), modifiers to temper intensity of argument (some may argue, many years), conditional mood and emphatic statement (if an animal is crammed into a cage it is wrong), and emotive language.
5. Vocabulary	4	Consistent use of precise words and word groups to enhance meaning with some inaccurate use (e.g. well founder countries, state of the arch, animals well being as safty).
6. Cohesion	3	Text contains word associations for lexical cohesion (habitats/safe haven/enclosure, trapped/crammed), substitution (This abrogation...) and repetitive language patterns for effect (e.g. ... is wrong at end of each paragraph, many animals in final paragraph). However, some referencing across text is a little clumsy, e.g. end of first paragraph – what statement is referred to? Not strong enough for Category 4.
7. Paragraphing	3	Paragraphs are ordered, cumulatively build argument across text, and have topic and summary sentences to pace and direct reader attention within paragraphs.
8. Sentence structure	3	Writing shows experimentation with more sophisticated sentence structures and language use. Shows control over most simple, compound and complex sentences but experimentation leads to errors such as incorrect word usage (Many animals are treated in well founder countries), verb errors (e.g. been put, Ta ked), and incorrect subject (selfish acts of placing an animal). Not the control needed for Category 4.
9. Punctuation	3	Sentence punctuation is mostly correct (two errors) and there is some correct use of commas for phrasing, quotation marks ('60 minutes') and some correct noun capitalisation (Dubbo, Bangladesh, RSPCA, Green Piece ; incorrect on china, chinese). Two possessive apostrophes are missing.
10. Spelling	5	All simple and most common words correct. Although there are more than 15 difficult words correct, errors prevent Category 6. Names of countries are not considered. Common words incorrect: bread (bred), Piece, safty . Difficult words correct: noticed, issue, captured, statement, habitats, countries, enclosure, forests, argue, government, attempt, fauna, decided, symbolic, inspired, recently, featured, symbolises, destructive, force, supported, activist, integrity . Difficult words incorrect: appauling, flaure . Challenging words incorrect: desprite/despriatly, sanctuaries, abrogratio/abrogation .

Under Certain Circumstances

I Disagree with the Statement that it is cruel to keep animals in cages and Zoos. I think That Under Certain Circumstances it may be cruel if They are Treated poorly and below Standard levels, but for the Majority i think they are treated Well. Captivity is all around us and our culture, domesticated pets Such as dogs and cats, Wildlife care and research Centres. If These animals are Cared for, Then I Should See no point in how it may be cruel.

The blackmarket has a very large part to do with caged Wildlife and mistreatment. Animals can be kept in small cages for weeks and Starved, forced to live upon Unethical Conditions and Sold To other bad homes. although this Market does exist, and plays a large ~~part~~ of captivity, it is not the Majority. Animals living in Zoos however, are often born to captivity and don't know the difference between The grasslands of africa, and The grasslands of Toronga Zoo. Food, water and other necessary supplies

Food, water and other necessary supplies are what money should be spent on. Many people believe that too much money is being spent on useless toys and games.

Toys and games are a good entertainment for kids and are able to keep them occupied. They are fun for the children using them and certain games can improve on the child's exercise rate, keeping them active. Many toys are used for fun and enjoyment but there are many that can help the child, whether it's learning something new and useful, keeping the child aware or developing their brains, education wise.

As many good things come out of having toys and playing games, there are negatives and many people are agreeing that there is too much money being spent.

Hundreds of dollars are being spent regularly on toys and games, when it could be going to better use. Important supplies and necessities are useful things that parents or adults should be spending money on. Of course children are going to need toys and games, but I believe they should have a limited amount, as there are more important things.

Food, water and other necessary supplies

Having games like playstations, computer games and Nintendo DS games can make the child addicted to playing the game, and will have less time to keep active. Too much electronic games are not healthy for children's brains and forces them to become lazy.

I believe that kids should limit their needs on games and toys because the money spent can be used for more important use, it is unhealthy and can prevent them from doing other activities.

The lion's glorious hair

The lion's glorious hair moved with the breeze as he smelt today's breakfast. Slowly, he prowled towards the delicious smell, preparing to pounce on his prey. As he spots his food he lightly leaps off the ground, into the air, and swallows the air born piece of meat. His large paws make a light thud as he meets the ground and an excited applause from the audience erupts. This is a lion in captivity, is this cruel?

There are millions of animals that are kept in zoos or cages instead of in the wild. I think that it is cruel to keep animals in cages but not cruel to keep them in zoos. Wild animals in zoos actually have a pretty good life. They are safe from hunters, they have a great habitat that is kept in the best quality by the zoo keepers, get exciting and entertaining toys, and many more things to keep them happy and healthy.

The lion's glorious hair

But then the animals are not experiencing what it's really like to be in the wild, you may argue. There are many zoos in the world that promote teaching animals in captivity the things they would normally do in the wild. If they were born in captivity, they are also taught these ways, so that they are prepared for "the real world".

Overall, animals do belong in the wild. They used to happily roam free in their natural environment. Although, it is extremely great that there are animal reserves all over the world to help them. Animals are a great gift to the world and we should do all we can to keep them safe and happy.

Persuasive devices	4	Effectively uses a range of devices including logical reasoning, narrative to appeal to the reader, emphasis without modality (This is a lion in captivity), rhetorical question (Is this cruel?), modifiers (actually have, many more ways) and paired words (exciting and entertaining, happy and healthy).
5. Vocabulary	3	Begins strongly by using a range of precise words to create imagery. However, use is not sustained.
6. Cohesion	3	Meaning is clear on first reading; however, text does not have the range of cohesive devices for Category 4. Uses correct referencing, connectives and word associations. Experimentation with structure leads to tense change in first paragraph (moved ... spots)
7. Paragraphing	3	Paragraphs are logically constructed and ordered to cumulatively build argument.
8. Sentence structure	5	Sentences are correct and demonstrate a variety of clause structures, phrases and sentence lengths. Minor slip allowed... as he meets the ground and an a excited...
9. Punctuation	4	Controls sentence punctuation and correctly uses apostrophes for possession (lion's, today's) and contraction, and quote marks for specific use ('the real world'). Mostly correct use of commas for phrasing (some overuse) and experiments with quotes to introduce counter argument. Not the precise use required for Category 5.
10. Spelling	5	All simple, most common words correct. Although there are more than 15 difficult words correct, errors prevent Category 6. Common word incorrect: peice. Difficult words correct: glorious, delicious, preparing/prepared, prey, excited, applause, audience, captivity, millions, actually, habitat, quality, healthy, experiencing, argue, promote, normally, natural, extremely. Difficult words incorrect: air born, arrupts, entertaining. Challenging word correct: environment.

If humans can have a voice why can't animals

"It is cruel to keep animals in cages and zoos."

So you think that you wouldn't mind having bars surrounding you, faces peering in any minute of the day, and kept away from your natural habitat? If humans can have a voice why can't animals. The statement suggesting that it is cruel to keep animals in cages and zoos, I think, is accurate. Animals have roamed this land before the destructive race of humans and we should not have the right to take control of their lives.

If animals are kept in zoos or cages all of their life they have no chance if or when they are let out into the wild. Although some zoos may claim that they have technology to provide the prisoners with products to make their enclosures seem natural, it will never be the same. In the wild animals grow up learning to be predators to catch their own food, ^{to know} which animals are of danger to them, and develop skills such as fastness and attacking methods. What skills are they going to learn in a small enclosure?

Zoo keepers may argue that being kept in a cage increases the chance of survival and allows reproduction to continue. Even though this is true, rather than locking them away, humans could help by protecting their natural environment, preventing the amount of-deaths by human progress. I hope that it would be agreed that blaming the animals, by locking them up for our mistakes is certainly cruel. Like all living things, animals have personalities to which further more conveys why zoos and caging animals is cruel.

In conclusion, taking animals away from their natural habitat should be considered cruel. No human technology will ever be the same as their environment and humans should understand that the extent of human progress is ruining animals' lives.

1. Audience	6	Controlled argument that uses persuasive devices deliberately and selectively, including engaging opening that addresses the reader in emotive language (bars surrounding you, destructive race of humans). Text appeals to readers' emotions, values and reason. Writing has strong voice.
2. Text structure	4	All parts are well developed. Strong introduction states position clearly. Body contains two points of argument that are elaborated and the conclusion reiterates position and makes a general statement that succinctly summarises this position.
3. Ideas	5	Text advocates for animal rights and freedom in the wild. These ideas are elaborated and contribute effectively to writer's position. Also develops position by refutation and making recommendations (humans could help by).
4. Persuasive devices	4	Devices suit style of argument (predominantly emotive). They include appeal to reader, emotive language choices, modality (we should not have the right), emphatic statements (it will never be the same, certainly cruel), conditional mood (If animals are kept ...) and rhetorical questions (If humans can have a voice ..., What skills are they going to learn ...?), and emphasis (should).
5. Vocabulary	4	Consistent use of precise words and word groups with some inaccuracy (amount of deaths, skills of fastness and attacking methods).
6. Cohesion	4	A range of cohesive devices enhances reading and supports underlying relationships. These include clear referencing, connectives (if, if or when, even though, rather than, in conclusion), substitution (it will never be the same) and word associations (e.g. bars/enclosures/prisoners/locking them up; increases the chance of survival/allows reproduction/preventing the amount of death).
7. Paragraphing	3	Paragraphs are structured and ordered to pace and direct reader's attention and cumulatively build argument across text.
8. Sentence structure	4	A range of more sophisticated structures is used. Errors keep this from Category 5: verb error in line 3 (being kept), missing verb in last sentence of 1st paragraph, and agreement error in 2nd paragraph (all of their life).
9. Punctuation	4	Sentence level punctuation is correct. One missing question mark in first paragraph (two used successfully over the text), mostly successful use of commas for phrasing and in lists and an apostrophe for plural possession (animals'). Strong Category 4.
10. Spelling	5	All simple and most common words correct. zoos can have useful purposes

To keep animals in zoos can have useful purposes for research and can protect animals who may not survive in the wild. However, to keep animals locked in cages is a cruelty and injustice to animals.

Zoos have some advantages when it comes to keeping animals in captivity. For endangered animals, zoos can provide protection for those who would not survive in the wild, and have breeding programs that ensure the survival of these animals. If animals are kept in well established facilities, and the zoos are well funded to meet the healths and medical needs of all the animals, then there is no reason why these animals should not be well looked after. However, in many countries around the world, zoos have little money and terrible, small cramped areas. If elephants are kept in small facilities, this causes damage to their feet that can often not be repaired. These conditions can be argued as cruel to animals.

To keep animals trapped in an environment for the sole purpose of entertainment is a terrible mistreatment. Many animals' life expectancy can be greatly decreased when taken from the wild and placed in captivity. The whale shark can live to over a hundred years of age in the wild, but when trapped in a tank, this is shortened to just three years. This is mostly because of the small size of their living area.

This is why keeping animals in cages, disregarding their need for open spaces, is a terrible act of cruelty and mistreatment.

Zoos may provide protection for animals, but some cause more harm than they prevent. If animals need to be kept in captivity to survive, they can be moved to proper, open sanctuaries with their own kind in their natural habitat.

In conclusion although some zoos may provide protection for animals with the right facilities, this

Is Too Much Money Spent on Toys and Games?

It is important for human beings to set aside time for leisure and recreational activities in order to relax and enjoy themselves.

However, it is not abnormal for people to become obsessed by such activities and spend too much time and money on them. As a teenager/adolescent, the reality is, a lot of time and money will often be spent on video games or toys for younger children. I believe that money spent on such things should be regulated.

As I mentioned earlier, it is important for us to participate in leisure and recreational activities. The reality is, many of these activities cost money, and that money is money gone from you or your parents/guardians savings. It is unnecessary for someone to purchase 10-15 video games when the person only really plays 4 or 5. This is ironic, because I, myself, am a culprit of such a thing, but I have learnt the hard way to spend my money more wisely.

Not only does spending too much on games and toys lose you or others money, it also makes you lose interest in more productive activities such as sports which keep you fit and healthy and expand your social networks. Although I and many others wish it was the case, playing with toys and video games doesn't exactly get you physically fit, although some games have been proven to improve eyesight and mental ability.

Although I have talked about the costs that games and toys can incur if not used in moderation, I still believe it is important to allocate some money to such activities, to keep the person in a good frame of mind. However, spending too much money on these activities can also cause one to develop bad habits regarding how they spend their money as an adult. It is important for young adults to learn that leisure time is only one facet of life, and that everything should be done in moderation.

In conclusion, I believe it is important to allocate time and money to toys and games, however, everything must be done in moderation, and it is an important role of parents/guardians to ensure that time and money spent on these activities is regulated.

get it so he stoped crying but I didn't get the jug. Mum and dad look at me

One glorious morning

Strangely that I've done something wrong. "Well who knows?" I said.

'Money should be spent in things in need like: toilet paper and food.' "Ah OK" dad said so we went to a center bought all our things and traveled back home. I said to my self "What do you think using money or saving it?"

Note on text structure

The structural components of the persuasive text are the introduction, the development of argument (body) and the conclusion.

A text may comprise some or all components. The development of the components increases with the sophistication of the text.

The Introduction

The purpose of the introduction is to introduce the reader to the main idea of the essay. It should provide some context or identify issue(s) associated with the topic, and it should capture the interest of the reader and tell why the topic is important.

An introduction contains a thesis statement which states the topic and the writer's position on it and describes the line of argument to be taken in the writing. It may use:

- a formulaic structure to outline a list of arguments, or main ideas, to be developed in the body (All animals started off)
- a pertinent fact followed by some elaboration (Zoos can have useful purposes)
- a short, relevant anecdote to illustrate the topic (The lion's glorious hair)
- generalisations about the topic (Cages and Zoos).

The introduction may also focus on an aspect of the topic by narrowing the perspective to be taken. This may be achieved through definition, explanation or exemplification (Under certain circumstances).

A less developed introduction contains a clearly identifiable statement of the writer's position on the given topic. The statement provides the reader with a clear idea of the writer's position. There is little or no elaboration of the position (I agree and don't agree; My idea of a perfect zoo).

Some texts (any other animal; they try to break out) do not have a clearly identifiable section which fulfills the purpose of an introduction. These texts may begin with an opinion immediately followed by a reason or reasons. These statements read as points of argument and could belong in either an introduction, a body or a conclusion. They give the reader little or no idea of the direction the argument will take and are not clearly identifiable as an introduction.

Development of argument (body)

The body is used to convince the reader to agree with the position taken. It develops the point or points of argument that have been outlined or foreshadowed in the introduction.

A case for each point of argument is developed with supporting evidence that may include explanation, examples, comparisons, contrasts, expert opinion or references, quotations, data and/or anecdotes.

Some students will make the case for one side of the argument. Others will write in support of both sides with varying degrees of sophistication. In doing this, some may list points in support of both sides without coming to a position on the topic. Others may work their way towards a conclusion, discussing the pros and cons of the topic to arrive at a position.

Conclusion

The purpose of the conclusion is to bring closure to the argument in a way that reinforces the writer's position on the topic.

A conclusion may:

- use a formulaic structure to summarise the thesis statement and/or points of the essay by either restating them exactly or by retelling them in different words (All animals started off; Cages and zoos; Under certain circumstances; If humans can have a voice why can't animals)
- provide a final perspective or reflection on the topic that reinforces the thesis or writer's position in a meaningful way. This may include:
 - a personal perspective or reflection
 - an anecdote or quote
 - a plan of action
 - a call to action (The lions glorious hair)
 - a recommendation
- draw conclusions by synthesising the ideas presented in the points of argument, thus arriving at a new perspective (not to be confused with introducing 'new' material).

Some texts do not have a clearly identifiable section which fulfills the purpose of a conclusion. These texts may finish with a brief ending statement that gives closure to the writing. The reader has a sense that the writer has finished their writing (they try to break out; I agree and don't agree, My idea of a perfect zoo).

Glossary of terms

1 Persuasive devices

Overview of Persuasive Rhetorical Discourse

Following the classical philosophers, persuasive rhetorical discourse is constituted by:

- the selection of ideas (invention)
- the arrangement of the ideas into arguments or proofs (disposition)
- the choice of language (style)

Ethos, Logos and Pathos are the means by which persuasion to a point of view on an issue can occur.

Ethos: persuading by appealing to the readers' values

Logos: persuading by the means of logical reasoning

Pathos: persuading by appealing to the reader's emotion

The following table lists some features of arguments that draw on Ethos, Logos and Pathos.

Ethos – appeal to values	Logos – appeal to reason	Pathos – appeal to emotion
Value of relationships	Dispassionate language	Emphatic statements
Appeal to truth	Objective author stance	Emotive language
Duty of care	Citing of a relevant authority	Direct appeal to the reader
Creation of a just society	Objective view of opposition	Appeal to spurious authority
Community responsibility	Qualified measured statements	Disparagement of opposition

Persuasive Devices

Authoritative statement

Statements that are irrefutable in the context of the argument e.g. Dogs love human attention.

Conditional mood

The conditional mood is recognised by subordinate clauses beginning with words or phrases such as if, unless, as long as, even if, even though, on the condition that.

Direct address to the reader

A direct address to the reader, recognised by the use of you/us/we, has the effect of drawing the reader to identify with the writer's position.

- You may have noticed that over the last couple of years the issue of animals ...
- We need them to supply us with food.

Emphasis

- Punctuation (e.g. underlining, bolding, exclamation mark, capitalisation, quotation marks)
- Overstatement

- Understatement
- Repetition for effect
- Single words
- Words or phrases at the beginning or end of successive clauses or statements e.g. the grasslands of Africa and the grasslands of Taronga zoo ...
- Repetitions and parallel constructions in threes (e.g. tricolon, lists) to build to a culmination.
- Anecdote (see Figurative language, below)

Emphatic statements

Emphatic statements are forcible statements that are used to give emphasis.

- I should see no point in how it may be cruel.
- It will never be the same.

Figurative language

Figurative language refers to the techniques of language which help construct images in the reader's mind and includes alliteration, imagery, similes and metaphors, personification, idioms and word play (pun). Anecdote may also be used to illustrate or emphasise an issue (e.g. see the script The lion's glorious hair).

Humour, irony and sarcasm

Humour is shown where the amusing or comical is expressed.

Irony occurs when the literal meaning is the opposite of that intended. It may be expressed as an understatement, be used in a playful manner or to ridicule.

Sarcasm is scornful or derisory comment. It may be employed through irony (to ridicule).

Hyperbole

Hyperbole is a figure of speech in which statements are exaggerated. It may be used to evoke strong feelings or to create a strong impression, but is rarely meant to be taken literally.

Imperative mood

The imperative mood is present in statements of high modality that are used to express direct requests and commands, either positively or negatively, for the effect of excluding argument. It addresses either the second person (you) or first person plural (we), e.g. Don't let it happen again! or We must stop caging animals now!

Modality

Modality covers expressions of how the world might be and should be and includes expressions of necessity, permissibility and probability, and negations of these.

- Modal verbs of permissibility and probability: would/wouldn't, should/shouldn't, could/couldn't, may/may not, might/might not
- Modal verbs with high modality (necessity): must, will, need to, have to
- Modal adjectives: possible, probable, certain
- Modal adverbs: possibly, probably, certainly
- Modal nouns: possibility, probability, certainty

Personal opinion

- I think it is cruel to put animals in cages.
- In my opinion only certain animals should be locked up.

Reference statements

Reference statements are those where a source is cited. They may lend authority to an argument. In the context of the NAPLAN writing test, allowances are made for the test conditions where students do not have access to research material.

Rhetorical questions

Rhetorical questions implicitly contain their own answer.

- This is a lion in captivity. Is this cruel?

Value statements

- I believe that if an animal is in a good habitat but treated unfairly it is wrong.
- Animals can be kept in small cages for weeks and starved, forced to live upon unethical conditions.

2 Vocabulary

Adjective

Adjectives are words that give additional information about the noun. They can be used before a noun or after a verb.

Before a noun: Stubborn teenagers will not heed sensible advice.

After a verb: Teenagers can be stubborn.

Adverb

Adverbs give additional information about verbs, adjectives and other adverbs. They tell how, when and where something happens, e.g. he walked slowly; I'll see you tomorrow; the dog ran away, he arrived extremely late, the animal grew increasingly restless. The final two examples show adverbial phrases.

Figurative language – see section 1: Persuasive devices Metaphor

A metaphor is a figure of speech where one thing is said to be another. They do not use like or as, e.g. The work done by volunteers is the glue that holds a community together. My fingers are ice.

Noun

Nouns are known as naming words. There are two main classifications of nouns: common nouns and proper nouns. Common nouns name people, places or things and are said to be either concrete (e.g. boy, city, sheep, chair, family, sunshine), collective (flock, army, crowd, band) or abstract (hope, frustration, liberty). Proper nouns name specific people, places or things and should always start with a capital letter, e.g. James, Canberra, Dubbo Zoo.

Preposition

Prepositions (from the Latin meaning placed before) express a time or space relationship between two people or things. They are words such as below, for, down, above, to, near, under, since, between, with, before, after, into, from, beside, without, out, during, past, over, until, through, off, on, across, by, in, around, onto. Prepositions are always followed by a noun or pronoun.

Prepositional phrases, e.g. in the wild; with tears in her eyes, can be used as a device to enhance description.

Pronoun

A pronoun stands in place of a noun or noun group. A pronoun refers to something that has been named and has already been written about, e.g. The harbour is a popular place. It is mostly used by fishermen. Pronouns work only if they are not ambiguous (that is, there is a clear line of reference) and are not used too repetitively. Examples of common pronouns are:

I, you, she, it, we, they, mine, ours, yourself, himself	You can't keep all the apples yourself!
this, that, these, those	These are mine.
each, any, some, all, much, many	Some will be given to Peter.
who, which, what, whose, whom	Who is visiting tomorrow?

Simile

A simile is a figure of speech which compares one thing with another by using like or as, e.g. Without the business that teenagers bring, the shopping centre would be like a wasteland. The two things being compared must be different, e.g. the example The distant building looked like a castle would not be a simile if the building was in fact a castle.

Verb

Verbs are the basis of any message communicated. They are the engine of the sentence or clause and provide movement or action, or a sense of what is happening. Different types of verbs are used, depending on the purpose of the text. The writing could feature:

- action verbs ('doing' words): The animals are fed every day.
- saying verbs: I have explained why animals should not be kept in cages; scientists report better outcomes for the animals in open sanctuaries.
- thinking verbs: I believe that ... , I agree with ... , I think my idea is ... , it is thought that ...
- relational verbs: We have the right. They will not be free.

Extended verb groups indicate many sentence features, such as tense and modality, e.g. They have been working on it for a long time. (tense); Animals should not be kept in captivity. (modality).

3 Cohesion

Cohesion is about linking ideas or concepts and controlling threads and relationships over the whole text. Cohesion in a text is achieved through use of various devices.

Connectives (signal words or discourse markers)

Connectives are used to link ideas to one another across paragraphs and sentences to show logical relationships of time, cause and effect, comparison or addition. They can be placed at various positions within a sentence.

The logical relationships can be grouped as follows:

- Temporal (to indicate time or sequence ideas)
first, second, next, meanwhile, till, while, then, later, previously, finally, to conclude
- Causal (to show cause and effect)
because, for, so, consequently, due to, hence, since, accordingly
- Additive (to add information)
also, moreover, above all, equally, besides, furthermore, as well as, or, nor, additionally
- Comparative
rather, elsewhere, instead, alternatively, on the other hand

- Conditional/concessive (to make conditions or concessions) yet, still, although, unless, however, otherwise, still, despite, nevertheless
- Clarifying
in fact, for example, in support of this, to refute

Conjunctions are a form of connective and are used to join ideas within one sentence. They are placed at the beginning of a clause. Some conjunctions are and, but, by, or, if, since, although, though.

Ellipsis

Ellipsis is the omission of words that repeat what has gone before; these items are simply understood.

The project will be innovative. To be involved will be exciting. In the second sentence, in the project is ellipsed.

Referring words

Referring words maintain continuity and avoid repetition.

- Noun-pronoun chains: You should not put animals in cages because they would want to be in the wild with their family.
- Articles (e.g. a, an, the): My idea of a perfect zoo is the one in Dubbo
- Demonstratives (e.g. this, that, there, these): That bicycle was very expensive. John had owned mice before but this mouse was different.
- Quantifying determiners (e.g. every, much, many, most, numbers): There is much interest being shown. Many children went to the zoo. The rule applies to every person. I have one car.

Substitution

Substitution refers to words that replace noun groups or verb groups: such, one:
There was a lot of swearing and abuse. Such language is simply not acceptable.

Word associations (or lexical cohesion)

- Repetition: They have to work for dinner ... they have to work for visitors.
- Synonyms: The weather had been hot. It was another boiling day.
- Antonyms: Wild animals should not be kept in captivity. They need open spaces.
- Word sets: class and sub-class, or whole and part clusters of words: Wild animals/lions, tigers, hippos; food/eggs, meat.
- Collocation: words which typically go together, making the text flow well.
cages/bars/locked; river/bank/water.

4 Sentence structure

Sentences

A sentence is a group of words that makes complete sense. It is marked in writing by beginning with a capital letter and ending with a full stop, question mark or exclamation mark. There are four functions for sentences:

Making statements: The girl shot a goal.

Asking questions: Did the girl shoot a goal?

Uttering commands: Shoot the goal!

Sentence and clause types

Simple sentence

A simple sentence is one that contains a single clause. Birds should be let free.

Compound sentence

In compound sentences there are two or more clauses which are coordinated, or linked, so that each clause has equal status. Clauses in compound sentences are usually joined by the conjunctions and, but, or, and so and then.

Birds should be released and allowed back in the wild.

Complex sentence

A complex sentence contains embedded and/or subordinate clauses. The feature of embedded clauses is that the clause is part of the structure of another clause and therefore does not have a coordinating relationship with the main clause.

Subordinating clause: When the birds are let free, they will be able to catch their own food.

Embedded clause: When the birds that have been locked up are let free, they will be able to catch their own food.

Adjectival clause

An adjectival (or relative) is a clause that gives additional information about a noun or noun group. It is embedded if the information it provides is located within the subject or object of another clause. An adjectival clause generally (but not always) begins with a relative pronoun such as who, which or that.

Subject: The play equipment that children love is not necessarily the safest equipment in the playground.

Object: Children love playing with equipment which allows them to use their imagination.

Adverbial clause

An adverbial clause is a subordinate or dependent clause that provides optional information about time, place, condition, concession, reason, purpose or result.

Time: After studying so hard during the week, all students want to do on the weekend is relax.

Concession: Children may still get hurt, even if the climbing equipment is removed.

Condition: If the cage is too small, the animals cannot move around.

Reason: The ban should be lifted because it discriminates against teenagers.

Noun clause

A noun clause is a clause that acts as the subject or object of another clause.

Subject: What he had been ordered to do weighed heavily on his mind.

Object: Some studies show that crimes committed by teenagers are rising.

Subject with adjectival clause: Conserving endangered animal species that are threatened by habitat destruction should be the priority of all zoos.

Basic structures

The examples below exemplify basic sentence structures referred to in the Sentence Structure criterion of this marking guide. Independent clauses are underlined.

Basic simple sentence

Animals are important.

Basic complex sentence with projected clause

I think (that) you should not put animals in cages.

Basic complex sentence with dependent clause following main clause

It is cruel because the animals don't have freedom.

Basic compound/complex sentence

It is good to keep birds in cages but other animals can go into the zoo.

Basic complex sentence with projected clause and dependent clause following main clause

I think (that) it is cruel because the animals don't have freedom.

I agree that people are unkind when they do not treat animals well.

Basic complex sentence with dependent clause starting with 'if' preceding main clause

If the cage is too small, the animal cannot move around.

More sophisticated structures

The examples below exemplify more sophisticated sentence structures referred to in the Sentence Structure criterion of this marking guide. Independent clauses are underlined.

Extended simple sentence

Like all living things, animals have personalities too.

Complex sentence containing projected clause and dependent clause following main clause

I agree that animals should be kept in cages because they won't need to fight other animals.

Compound/complex sentence with adverbial phrase preceding first clause and embedded clause within the second clause

One glorious morning I woke up and it was time to go to the shops.

Complex sentences containing dependent clauses starting with 'when' and 'because' preceding main clause

When animals are kept in captivity, their life expectancy is reduced.

Because animals need open spaces, they should not be locked in cages.

Extended complex sentence with dependent clauses following main clause

For working animals such as dogs or horses, it generally isn't cruel to keep them in captivity depending on the work they are required to do.

Extended complex sentence

You may have noticed that, over the last couple of years, the issue of animals' wellbeing has been debated time and time again.

Extended complex with two dependent clauses – one preceding and one following the main clause

Being aware of the need to feed the animals properly, the zookeeper worked hard to provide a nourishing diet that ensured their health.

Extended complex sentence with extended (compound) dependent clause following the main clause

Zoo keepers may argue that being kept in a cage increases the chance of survival and allows reproduction to continue.

Extended complex sentence containing multiple dependent clauses

Although I agree that releasing animals into the wild may be beneficial to some animals, I do believe that most zoos, as least those that are operated by trained and caring people, succeed in providing animals with good care.

5 Punctuation

Punctuation is used to aid the smooth reading of a text.

Brackets

Round brackets, or parentheses, enclose information or comment within an otherwise complete sentence. Brackets are used for adding information, giving explanations, clarification, providing examples, and afterthoughts, comments and asides.

Colons

Colons are normally used to signal the following:

- a list: The children do the same things every day: climb, jump, play on the swings and build sandcastles.
- an explanation: One consequence is inevitable: people will get hurt.
- a subtitle: School Safety: Can Cameras Combat Crime?

Commas

Commas are used within sentences to separate information into readable units and guide the reader as to the relationship between phrases and clauses. Commas act as markers to help the reader voice the meaning of long sentences, e.g. when a sentence begins with a phrase or a subordinate clause, the comma indicates where the main clause begins.

Commas are also used to separate items in a list.

Hyphen

The hyphen is a small dash that is used to:

- link two words to form a single word: one-way street; like-minded friend; button-like nose.
- clarify meaning and avoid ambiguity: Man-eating tiger seen at zoo; Her grandmother owned a walking-stick.
- avoid letter collision: shell-like; re-establish, co-worker.

Points of ellipsis

Points of ellipsis (...) are used to indicate the omission of text, suspense or a time lapse.

Quotation marks

Quotation marks (or inverted commas) identify words that are spoken by a character (direct speech) or written words that belong to people other than the writer. There is an increasing trend for single quotation marks (' ... ') to be used in place of double quotation marks although this is a matter of style.

Semicolons

Semicolons are used to separate two independent clauses containing different though related pieces of information: the use of a semicolon strengthens the link between ideas, e.g. the installation of closed circuit television cameras will make teachers and students more self conscious; schools will no longer be a comfortable place. This could be written as two separate sentences. The use of a comma in this example would make the sentence incorrect.

Semicolons are also used to separate complex items in a list, e.g. In the event of a fire, all students must: leave the building immediately; not attempt to take any materials with them; assemble in the main quadrangle with their roll class.

Using semicolons with conjunctive adverbs

A semicolon should be used to join two independent clauses when the second clause begins with a conjunctive adverb that relates to (ties in with) the idea of the first clause or it is of equal emphasis. The conjunctive adverb and the clause that follows must stand alone, i.e. it can be written as one sentence.

A full stop is used where more emphasis is required for the second clause. In the following examples, both versions are correct.

We would like to go Morocco for the holidays; accordingly, we will have to apply for visas.
We would like to go Morocco for the holidays. Accordingly, we will have to apply for visas.

They wanted to go to the concert; however, it was impossible to get a ticket.
They wanted to go to the concert. However, it was impossible to get a ticket.

Some conjunctive adverbs are: accordingly, furthermore, moreover, nevertheless similarly, however, therefore, otherwise, instead namely, still, finally, consequently, indeed, certainly.
